

Telvent and SAP to collaborate on developing new models for implementing technology solutions

Madrid, September 19, 2005 – Telvent (NASDAQ TLVT), the Global RealTime IT Company, has signed a collaboration agreement with SAP España, a worldwide business software provider, to develop a new model to implement SAP technological solutions in different companies. Telvent's outsourcing services include SAP technology together with the implementation of the mySAP All-in-One integral software management solution for companies, performed by SAP authorized collaborators and distributors. This collaboration agreement will enable Telvent to provide the integral management of information flow from computer systems and offers a global and flexible service that improves the technological infrastructures for companies.

Telvent's approach, which enables the integral information management of all specified systems, is based on a Service Level Agreement, which allows clients to measure how closely the services comply with commitments. The information systems control, management and incident resolving will be performed from Telvent's Customer Service Center (CSC), which will respond to all requests for assistance received through the various channels (web, e-mail and telephone) In addition, real-time monitoring will be carried out on the status of the systems and required services utilizing various reporting and analytical tools. Telvent will also be responsible for the economic model offered to clients, which represents a competitive advantage to companies and is available through a monthly user fee, thereby freeing up annual budget funds while providing an accurate three-year forecast.

According to Emilio Martín Rodríguez, Telvent Outsourcing General Manager, "This collaborative approach with SAP represents a milestone in our history and is an important component in Telvent's growth strategy, representing a new model which will make it easier for a company to incorporate an integrated business management system, thus allowing integration of new technologies that will increase their company's competitiveness and efficiency."
